METEORIC DISPLAY.

Scheduled For November Fourteen and Fifteen.

few hours before the appearance of the meteors until sunrise and the fall in temperature continued until November 21, when it reached 21 degrees from 54 degrees on the 12th.

The rainy character of these years says Pro. MacBennett is remarkable. No records are obtainable for 1799. In 1833, in this vicinity generally, the rainfall was in excess of from 4 to 7 inches above the mean of a quarter-century. The summer of 1867 was noted for its heavy, incessant rains; there fell in the month of June 10.33 inches, and in July 6 inches, or an aggregate for the first seven months of the year of 30.05 inches—the annual average being about 43 inches. The month of August was an unusual rainy one, a single downpour in the middle of that month having lasted 42 hours, with but a few hours of abatement. September and October were pleasant, but November and December, with their rain and snow, carried the year's record to about 57 inches, the highest ever known in this vicinity. The year 1867 was also, like the other periodic years, remarkable for snows and thunderstorms out of season and other phenomena of an extraordinary character. In the first week of November great tornadoes occurred in the West Indies, violent gales on our great Lakes, a remarkable thunderstorm in Montreal while in this vicinity the thermometer dropped, on the morning of the 7th, to 30 deg. and immediately began to run up again until it reached 47 deg. shortly after midnight. On November 11 the day at Washington, D. C., was unusually warm, ending in a violent thunderstorm at night, followed immediately by a very high and cold wind and at noon a fall of snow.

The present year, 1901, has been just such a rainy one as those which have heretofore marked the Leonid periods. At the end of last August the rain and snow-fall footed up for this vicinity about 36.4 inches or about 6 inches more than the average of the first eight months during a period of 32 years. The extraordinary phenomena noted this year are precisely those which characterized the previous periodical years. So that there seems sufficient reason to look forward with confidence to a reappearance of the great Leonid shower this fall. A remarkable circumstance was noted at Kinderhook, N. Y., on the 11th of November, 1833, two days before the great shower. Phosphorescent lights were seen on the tops of sticks, posts and other pointed objects, some of those lights being as large as the flame of a candle, and having a dim white light pointing upward. At the same time the atmosphere appeared unusually red. This and many other phenomena that especially characterized the periodic years lead not unreasonably to the conjecture that the passage of meteoric swarms and of comets, either close to or into the earth's orbit, affects seriously the atmosphere, the temperature and the weather of our planet."

What Was in Him. "Children," said the teacher, while instructing the class in composition, "you should not attempt any flights of fancy, but simply be yourselves, and other person's writings or draw inspiration from outside sources." As a result of this advice Johnny Wise turned in the following composition: "We should not attempt any flights of fancy, but rite what is in us. In me there is mystummick, lungs, hart, liver, two apples, one piece of pie, one stick lemon candy and my dinner."—Baltimore American.

"I had long suffered from indigestion," writes G. A. LeDels, Cedar City, Mo. "Like others I tried many preparations but never found anything that did me good until I took Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. One bottle cured me. A friend who had suffered similarly I put on the use of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. He is gaining weight and will soon be able to work. Before he used Kodol Dyspepsia Cure indigestion had made him a total wreck. Trout's drug store.

Big Cove Tannery.

The preaching which was held at Aaron Morgret's by Capt. A. Dotterman and General John Pedden last Sunday was well attended. Mr. and Mrs. Carpenter from near Hancock were there, and Mr. Carpenter gave a very nice talk in the evening. The work which the Captain and General have been doing in the Cove has led many persons to become interested in the salvation of their souls. May God help the brothers to win more. The Salvation Army comrades will hold a prayer meeting at Frank Deshong's Thursday, October 31. There will, also, be preaching at Wm. Carbaugh's on Thursday night, Nov. 8; at Frank Deshong's Nov. 9; at Jacob Gordon's Saturday evening, November 10, and on Sunday, November 11, at ten o'clock, and the same day in the evening, at Geo.
